And yet, it is a different dimension when folded down. Any thoughts on which is better? Thanks. 07-30-2010 #2 I don't think there is a difference. Perhaps one website popped off the wheels and got a more compact fold? 07-30-2010 #3 I don't think there is a difference I looked at the stroller strides when REI had their sale and the only difference seemed to be the fitness accessories and the exclusive color (red). Ended up with a BJ Summit as I liked the taller, padded seat back and got a phenom deal on it. DH was happy with it as he is the jogger in the family (on occasion). For my purposes it would be used for parks, neighborhood walks, etc. 07-30-2010 #4 the are the exact same stroller- only diff. is that it says "stroller strides" on the fabric and comes with a slightly diff. handlebar console INCLUDED in the price and some ropes etc for working out 07-30-2010 #5 Originally Posted by jacksomma the are the exact same stroller- only diff. is that it says "stroller strides" on the fabric and comes with a slightly diff. handlebar console INCLUDED in the price and some ropes etc for working out Yep, that's totally right. And Stroller Strides is the only Revolution that comes in red. If there's any difference in published dimensions, it's an error. Heather Owner, PeppyParents Are you a daily jogger, and worried that when the baby arrives, you'll have to give up your morning run? Have you been looking for a jogging stroller, but are unsure which brand is best? One company known for its durable jogging strollers is BOB. We'll give you an insight into its history, what reviewers say, as well as an in-depth look at the four best BOB strollers. BOB was created by Roger Malinowski and Phillip Novotny, who met in 1994 (1). Malinowski was a bicycle industry expert, and Novotny was an airline mechanic. When they first met, Novotny was producing and selling a modified cruiser bike, which he called the YAK. Malinowski quickly recognized an opportunity to create a booming business from Novotny's product. Together they came up with the YAK trailer — changing forever how bikes carry gear. Initially, they came up with the name "Beast of Burden," however, the name wasn't the great success they had hoped for. They renamed it BOB — a simple, fun acronym that got people's attention. It wasn't until Malinowski and Novotny had started families that their idea for a jogging stroller came to life. Their first example was the BOB Sport Utility Stroller. It included all BOB's patented features like superior suspension, polymer wheels, and an easy-to-fold frame. To ensure the stroller could withstand the rough nature of kids, they sought help from their children. By letting them flip, push, and jump on the buggy, they knew it was durable. It was a success among consumers, who quickly requested another one, designed for twins. Thus, the Duallie was born in 2001. The company continued coming up with innovative ideas, and in 2005, it created a swiveling front wheel to enhance turning. BOB Today BOB has been in business for nearly two decades and is still producing jogging strollers, fit for parents with varying lifestyles. Although it's not the same owners — in 2011, a British juvenile products company named Britax acquired BOB. Britax has been in the industry since 1939. So by combining its experience with BOB's innovations, it's become a giant enterprise in today's market. The BOB branch continues its commitment to providing families with high-quality strollers. It's determined to help parents lead an active lifestyle by giving them the opportunity of taking even the newest family member with them. After a long week of searching through the best BOB strollers, we found our top four. We utilized some help from parent reviews and expert advice to ensure we got the best. If you're hoping to stay active after the baby is born, BOB Revolution Flex is an excellent pick. It is compatible with BOB or Britax Infant Car Seats, and with most other major brands (using a compatible adapter) to make a complete travel system package. The stroller gives a smooth ride, even over curbs or an uneven trail, thanks to the mountain bike-inspired suspension. Air-filled tires enforce the power of the suspension, leveling out the surface you're traveling on. Your baby will stay safe due to Britax's exclusive safety technology. It keeps your little one secure both in your vehicle and in the stroller. BOB is famous for its mountain bike-inspired suspension. Many parents praise how smooth the ride is and how easy it is to push, even across rough terrain. Air-filled tires are especially helpful when going over curbs and sidewalks. Newborn-Friendly BOB Revolution Flex will keep your little one safe during your daily walks or weekly hikes. It includes many of Britax's safety technologies, providing protection well beyond the federal standards. The integrated LATCH system enables you to tighten the seat, keeping it secure quickly. The car seat is for babies weighing between 4 and 35 pounds. Once your baby outgrows it, you can continue using the stroller up to 75 pounds. Ventilated Canopy To keep your baby comfortable during warm days, the car seat includes a ventilated canopy. It extends over the top, and together with the visor on the buggy, it creates an enclosed space. This provides full protection for your little one from the elements while still being comfy. Versatile Stroller The Revolution Flex is the single version of the Duallie. It's intended for busy parents who require a flexible stroller they can use for a variety of occasions. The travel system is ideal to choose if you have a newborn. However, it is also available as a single stroller. It's incredibly durable, made from aluminum alloy. The front wheel is adjustable, enabling the stroller to work well on the trail or in a crowded park. Lunar, Gray, Olive, Teal Swivel wheels No BOB's Rambler is excellent for everyday activities like such as trips to the market, going for a light jog, or a family outing. It's a compact, featherweight version of other BOB strollers, weighing approximately 25 pounds, which, compared to others, is relatively light. The frame is incredibly sturdy and can carry a weight up to 75 pounds. It's straightforward to fold and it will fit in the trunk of most vehicles. The Rambler genuinely makes an outing with the family much more manageable. The front wheel is adjustable, meaning you can lock and unlock the swivel function as needed. It's fitted with all the best BOB has to offer such as superior suspension, large canopy, breathable material, and a robust chassis. And, you can choose between two colors — black and lagoon. The Rambler is excellent for commuting parents. It weighs approximately 25 pounds, the lightest of all BOB strollers on today's list. Folding it is straightforward — it's a two-step process, and the wheels are removable if you need it to fit in a small space. Excellent Maneuverability Thanks to the swivel function on the front wheel, the Rambler turns on a dime. Its air-filled, polymer tires run smoothly across various surfaces. The superior mountain bike-inspired suspension evens out any bumps in the road. Large Onboard Basket Underneath the stroller sits an oversized storage basket where you can place all your necessities. It allows easy access from all sides and it's elevated, so it doesn't get too dirty. The stroller is easy to fold and will fit into many places. However, it doesn't stand independently when folded and falls over pretty quickly if not held on to. Small Storage The onboard storage is quite a let-down — it's significantly smaller than other BOB strollers. Some reviewers said there wasn't even enough space for a diaper bag. This means you'll have to find alternative ways to carry all your extra gear. Stroller weight 25 pounds Maximum weight capacity 75 pounds Minimum weight recommendation 4 pounds (only when using an infant car seat) Color Black, lagoon Swivel wheels Yes If you're searching for a double stroller with all the BOB benefits, then the Revolution Flex Duallie is one to look into. It's great both for jogging and strolling through town. The Flex Duallie is BOB's signature double stroller, which originated back in 2001. Different versions are available — there's the Pro, Flex 2.0, and the Flex 3.0. The front wheel features a swivel-lock function, giving you extra maneuverability or stability when needed. Air-filled tires and mountain bike suspension is also included for the best ride possible. An adjustable handlebar will suit any driver, and the seats can recline almost fully to accommodate a sleeping baby. It's also car seat compatible if you've got a new addition on the way. The Duallie is for adventurous parents who wish to bring two children with them, whether on the trail or to the zoo. The front wheel has a swivel function, which you activate when you need extra maneuverability. Each Duallie model comes with mountain-bike suspension, keeping the ride as smooth as possible. Because of BOB's mountain bike suspension and air-filled wheels, the stroller runs smoothly across all kinds of surfaces. Your little ones won't feel the bumps of an uneven road, and it's easy to push. Superior Maneuverability Many parents praise the maneuverability of the Duallie 3.0. Upon activating the swivel function, it can handle sharp corners and obstacles. When in locked mode, it provides you with the stability needed for higher speeds. Lots of Storage We truly appreciate how much storage there is. You get an oversized basket under the seat. Then there are ten extra pockets located around the stroller for all your essentials and valuables. It's not a pocket-sized stroller. It weighs over 30 pounds and takes up a significant amount of space when folded. Make sure you measure your trunk before purchasing it. Stroller weight 33.1 pounds Maximum weight capacity 75 pounds Minimum weight recommendation 4 pounds (only when using an infant car seat) Color Glacier Blue, graphite black, lunar black, and orange Swivel wheels Yes BOB Stroller-Related Accessories BOB offers a few add-on accessories to make your experience a little better. These are: Duallie Jogging Stroller Snack Tray: Children often build up an appetite when out exploring, so an onboard snack tray is appreciated. This tray is for the BOB Duallie stroller — it features two cup holders and flat surfaces for snacks or toys. You attach it to each side of the stroller and then release one side when loading or unloading. BOB Handlebar Console for Single Jogging Strollers: To keep your on-the-go lifestyle manageable, BOB offers this handlebar console for all its single strollers. It's water and stain-resistant — it comes with bottle holders, a large zippered center pocket. It attaches using four hook and loop straps, keeping it secure while on the go. BOB Travel Bag for Single Jogging Strollers: To avoid damage to your stroller while traveling, BOB suggests its single stroller travel bag that fits strollers like all-terrain, all-terrain pro, blaze, Rambler, Revolution series, and Stroller Strides 2016. The bag measures 20.7 inches by 10.4 inches by 34.6 inches. You can carry it using the shoulder strap or side handle. Before using it, remove the accessories and wheels from the buggy. BOB Sun Shield for Single Swivel Wheel Strollers: BOB's sun shield is a full mesh screen, encasing the stroller — protecting your baby against the sun, flying insects, and wind. It's compatible with BOB Revolution strollers as well as Stroller Strides single buggies. It attaches around the stroller using elastic, making it easy to put on and remove. Britax and BOB Car Seat Adapter: To transform your single BOB stroller into a travel system, you can use the car seat adapter. It's compatible with any BOB or Britax car seat. However, it's only for use on single strollers, and you shouldn't run with the car seat attached. Britax and BOB Car Seat Adapter for BOB Duallie: If you have an infant and a toddler riding together, this adapter is excellent. It enables you to attach a car seat on one side with a snack tray on the other. The adapter is compatible with any Duallie buggy produced after 2011. BOB Single Jogging Stroller Adapter for Graco Infant Car Seats: If you have a Graco car seat, but a BOB stroller, this adapter makes the two compatible. It attaches effortlessly to the buggy and keeps the Graco seat secured. It's only compatible with car seats produced after 2016. BOB Stroller Adapter for Peg Perego Car Seats: For Peg Perego car seats, BOB offers this adapter. What's more is that it doesn't require any tools for installation.
